Some people have said that the cuts to council funding are not that severe, as councils will still be receiving that same amount in cash terms as they did in 2007. Others have said that prices and wages have risen since 2007, and that this is a false comparison. Which of the following best reflects your view?

Councils are exaggerating the impact of the reduction in funding, and if they spend wisely the cuts need not be severe	43	71	24	55	68	24	39	45	41	30	38	42	54	43	43	39	47	42	41	39

Some people have suggested that local councils run by opposition parties are deliberately making high profile cuts to frontline services that they can blame them on the government, rather than attempting to save money through cutting bureaucracy. Which of the following best reflects your view?

Local councils run by opposition parties are deliberately cutting frontline services for party political reasons, when they could be making bigger savings in bureaucracy instead	42	72	21	53	69	21	39	44	41	23	36	42	58	43	42	40	45	39	42	46

David Cameron has said the Big Society is about giving more power to local communities and people, by taking more power away from government and allowing voluntary groups and communities to run public services. Examples include giving more powers to local government, encouraging people to take an active role in their communities and supporting charities and volunteer groups.

In principle, do you think the Big Society sounds like a good or bad idea?

Currently Britain is a signatory of the European Convention of Human Rights, meaning people can go to court if they feel their human rights have been abused and, ultimately, can take their case to the European Court of Human Rights. Do you think it is right or wrong that the European Court of Human Rights should be able to make rulings on things the British Parliament or courts have decided?

Some people have suggested that if Britain does not give prisoners the vote the Courts may award individual prisoners compensation for being denied the vote. It has been suggested that if this happens, the government could deduct the cost of food and lodging while in prison from any compensation. Which of the following best reflects your view?

Under the new tuition fees policy universities will be allowed to charge tuition fees of up to £6000, and up to £9000 if they take part in a National Scholarship Programme to fund places for less well-off students. Students will still be able to pay tuition fees using a student loan paid off after they graduate and earn over a certain wage.
